Bouwsma weaves through the central topics of Western religion: the rationality of religious belief, the nature of Christianity, the promise of eternal life, the definition of faith, and proofs of the existence of God. When he works with the problems of Descartes or Moore or Wittgenstein, surveying the marketplace of language in which we all have commerce, he has the familiarity of an experienced trader. But in his work with the problems of Anselm or Nietzsche or Kierkegaard, in which the Scriptures move between background and foreground, there is another dimension, a concern with whether the Scriptures have been properly understood, what such an understanding might be, and how it affects someone who so understands them.

This goes into past generations and surpasses even our own generation into the future; and we all stand in the shadow of history ignorant of the reality when the truth of evidence is staring you straight in the face. It is an ancient society that has the patience to live in a distance from mankind; while the story of our own identity becomes a struggle listed in my other work; with the outcome waiting for the revealing of alien life that was our progenitors on Earth. The surprising revelation of this story that is yet to be fulfilled; could just as well be the prophecy of Nostradamus explained before the events are to happen in time.
