the American political scientist Charles Tilly. The central theme of the book is state formation. Tilly writes about the complex history of European state formation from the Middle Ages to the 1990s - a thousand-year time span. While examining political, social, and technological change, Tilly attempts to explain the unprecedented success of the European nation-state as the dominant polity in the world, claiming that ...

Coercion, Capital, and European States - Summary Notes ...
He discussed coercion, capital and European states in the same perspective to explain the city-states that existed in Europe. He noted that, after the 10th century, Europe experienced a two dimensional development characterized by either "capital-rich" or "coercion-rich" characteristics (Tilly, 30). According to Tilly, "capital-rich" referred to those parts of Europe that established urban governments that were meant to serve the interests of capitalists.
